

The heARTbeat of Hollywood July 2016

It's hot. I am writing this in the midst of a heatwave in LA so it's a bit toasty. But Hollywood is also hot - hot in the sense of on fire with all kinds of artistic happenings. Here are some ideas for staying cool:

Along with their regular series of screening hot new films, NewFilmmakers Los Angeles have launched On Location: the Los Angeles Video Project, offering over $50,000 in prizes for people who creatively answer by August 26th the question "What is your LA?" Click here for details on how to enter.

The Hollywood Chamber Orchestra hosted a number of world premieres this summer, including a rare live performance by violinist Sarah Chang and the aptly titled World Premieres: Year One. Music Directors Noah Gladstone and Mark Robertson consistently offer our community opportunities to enjoy a wide array of music by premier musicians. View the calendar here.

After last year's success, the Montalbán Theatre's Rooftop Cinema Club has returned to heat up our nights with a diverse program of films screening nearly every night. Check out the excitement of outdoor cinema this summer here!

The Independent Shakespeare Company returns to LA, presenting productions in Griffith Park free of charge! Bring a blanket and a picnic and enjoy the bard in such an accessible way, you won't even miss the darkness of a theatre! More details here.

After a multi-year hiatus, the John Anson Ford Theatres are back with a full schedule of performances, including their Signature Series, Big World Fun, Jam Sessions and much more. Check out their family friendly upcoming events here.

We are proud to announce that a new partnership with the Hollywood Entertainment District as we seek an LA artist to create artwork which will be displayed on 10 utility boxes along the world-famous Walk of Fame. Check out the call for entries and get those creative juices flowing!

The Hollywood Arts Council Children's Festival of the Arts is on the move! After celebrating our 30th anniversary last year at Paramount Pictures, we are announcing new collaborations with local area schools. We plan to hold our first new celebration not in the dog days of August, but in the cooler autumn season. We will have many more surprises to announce soon but if you're interested in sponsoring a booth, please get in touch with us today at hacadmin@hollywoodartscouncil.org

Speaking of announcements, as many of you may have heard, in late spring Shauna McClure decided to fulfill a long-time dream and ultimately relocated to tropical Panama. We thank her for all her hard work and dedication with our organization and wish her well on her exciting new adventure. At the same time, we welcome on board Linda Horner, who will be fulfilling the role of Executive Director of the Hollywood Arts Council. An experienced professional within our community, someone who is familiar with our programs and who spent many years at L.A.C.E.R. Afterschool Programs, Linda brings with her a wealth of talent and expertise and we are excited to have her on-board.

Oh, and did I mention we're redesigning our website? Look for a fresh new look launching soon. And as always, thanks for your support of the arts in Hollywood.

All the best,

David Warren
Board Chair
Hollywood Arts Council
